OUR SCHOOL TODAY

Melissa Sajous Dietrich
Founder

One night when I was only 12 years old I had a life changing dream. I was to help small children in a third world country. This dream transformed my life and I knew I had to do all possible to bring this to fruition. In 2006 the opportunity presented itself on the island of Ile a Vache, Haiti. While walking to church in the village I saw a skinny girl lying faint on a pile of dried coconut leaves. I invited her to church with me. She came but had not eaten. She told me her mother would feed her later. Sure enough there was no food to be had that day. That broke my heart. I cried, fed her and vowed that I would somehow make a difference in her life and in lives of children like her. A few weeks later the local Pastor approached me about starting a school in the local church. Within a few weeks all was in order and I began looking for sponsors for the children. 64 of the poorest children were invited into the program and the new school had begun.

... In 2008 we were able to build 3 new classrooms on land purchased for a new school house
... many more of the poor of the poorest deserve, an education, a warm meal and a school.
